Air Hogs Hyperactives

Remote control vehicles will never go out of fashion in the world of kids toys. That said, some RC toys are more fashionable than others, and the Air Hogs Hyperactives are about as "hot" as you can get this holiday season!

Air Hogs Hyperactives Features

- Come in a wide range of metallic color options: blue/silver, orange/white, red/gold and blue/yellow,
- Suitable for ages 12 and above,
- For use indoors and outdoors
- High speeds up to 20 miles per hour,
- Requires 6 AA batteries for the remote,
- Comes with one controller and a charger.

Are Air Hogs Hyperactives Worth Buying For Your Child?

Air Hogs have been around for a long time, and their remote control helicopters went down especially well last Christmas. Like the helicopters, the Hyperactives have been recognized by toy stores as hot sellers for the holiday season, which means you should try to get your hands on them as early as possible before they sell out in stores and online.

Thankfully, the Hyperactives cars really do live up to what the manufacturer promises: they're super fast, and are excellent on a wide range of different terrains. They even come with a feature that means they always return to an upright position when you're using them. This keeps the fun flowing, reducing the need to stop and pick the vehicle up.

Controlling the hyperactives is a breeze thanks to the included remote control, which can be used as far as 100 feet away from the actual car. They're designed to remain unaffected by interference, meaning that your child can play along with friends or siblings who have their own Hyperactives. Racing the Hyperactives is more fun than with any other RC toys thanks to the fantastic speeds they can reach!

Although the small size of the cars make them nimble and fast to drive around, there's a potential drawback in that they're easy to lose. Just get your child to keep an eye on where they're sending the vehicle so they can always find it if it makes its way under furniture or into the bushes. This is one reason why it isn't suitable for very young children: the manufacturer recommends age 12 and above.

The charge on the hyperactives is very fast, taking around half an hour. That said, the battery will only last for around the same amount of play time, which could be a drawback for some children. Given the price of the device, however, and the fast charging time, this is to be expected on this type of RC toy.

There's no doubt that this is one of the best quality (and fastest) RC cars you can buy on the market. Older children will have hours of fun racing this both indoors and out, on their own or with their friends. All in all, high quality, affordable option for the holiday season!

Barbie Designable Hair Extensions Doll

Barbie is still one of the most popular toys available for girls today, after more than 50 years in the business. The latest Barbie offering for the holiday season puts a new twist on the classic doll. The Barbie Designable Hair Extensions Doll takes full advantage of modern technology to allow your child to create their own designs for her hair extensions online, print them onto the provided sheets and clip them into Barbie's, and their own, hair.

Features Of The Barbie Designable Hair Extensions Doll

- Comes with one Barbie doll,
- 16 printable hair extensions,
- 5 assorted clips.

For this toy to work, you need to have two things: an internet connection to access the hair designs website, and an inkjet printer to print directly onto the hair extensions.

Is The Barbie Designable Hair Extensions Doll Worth Buying For Your Child?

The Barbie website provides kids with a large number of different colors, patterns and icons. Just about any style is catered to, and there's the potential to create several different looks with the 16 included printable hair extensions. Your child can even upload their own images and use them on the hair, helping them to get as creative as possible.

The website itself is quite easy to use, though the toy is recommended for ages 6 and up. Kids can drag designs onto the hair extension image and then print it out when they're happy. You will need to be there to make sure the paper is loaded into the printer correctly, and do a test print to make sure everything looks right before using the real thing.

One drawback of the Hair Extensions Doll is the fact that it can be messy. If kids aren't patient enough to wait until the designs are fully dry on the doll, the ink can get everywhere. And some kids may quickly run out of the included hair extensions. New packs are available for around $11 each.

Unfortunately, depending on your printer, it can take a while for the hair extensions to dry - much longer than it'd take for the ink to dry on standard printed paper. Some parents have reported waiting for an hour, which some kids may not be happy with. It only works with color inkjet printers, so make sure you have the right type before you buy the doll.

The hair extensions definitely look funky when you've printed them out, and an added benefit is that there's one for your child to put in her own hair to match Barbie's. Barbie herself is nothing special, looking like any other Barbie you can buy, but all in all the set is a very fun twist on the classic Barbie dolls.

Dora Fiesta Favorites Kitchen

Little girls never get tired of preparing meals with kitchen playsets. This particular playset has one important difference to all the others out there, however. The Fisher-Price Dora Fiesta Favorites Kitchen Playset features Dora the Explorer, a character that little girls just love! This is why it's guaranteed to be such a hot seller this holiday season.

Features Of The Dora Fiesta Favorites Kitchen

- Comes with a refrigerator, oven, grill, sink, stovetop and phone,
- Double-sided recipe card for girls to put in the kitchen window,
- 2 recipes on each side of the card,
- Dora will talk you through each recipe,
- Comes with over 60 English and Spanish phrases,
- 20 play pieces in total,
- Uses 3 AA batteries (included).

Is The Dora Fiesta Favorites Kitchen Worth Buying?

This kitchen is brightly colored and looks fun, and there's a lot of detail in the various cooking elements. For example, your child can set the cooker knobs and timers, and they will make a noise when she does. You can see the racks inside the oven, or put the food into the refrigerator, and then wash up once the cooking is done.

The fact that it features Dora is a huge benefit over some other toy kitchens. If you have a child who adores the character, chances are she'll be asking for this kitchen in time for Christmas! The fact that Dora calls your child on the included cell phone to talk about what she's cooking is a cute bonus.

Note that there is some assembly required for this toy. Thankfully the instructions are easy to follow and it shouldn't take you too long before the kitchen is up and running. It's generally well constructed and should last long enough to be passed down to younger kids in future, though some parents have commented that the plastic could have been a little thicker.

To extend what your child can do with this toy kitchen, there are a couple of recipe packs available to buy separately: the apple pie and holiday cookies set. Each one of those comes with a recipe card that'll unlock new phrases in the kitchen, and the various pieces needed for the recipe. They cost around $11 each.

The recipes are easy to follow, especially with Dora's bilingual instructions, and the kit is suitable for kids aged 2 and above. Overall, however, this set is great fun! It keeps kids occupied for long periods of time, especially when they play together to follow all of the recipes.

Fijit Friends

Just about any girl will have the same toy on her wishlist this Christmas: a character from the Fijit Friends range. These are soft characters designed to talk, dance, move around, light up and respond to the children who play with them.

Features Of The Fijit Friends

- There are a range of different Fijit characters available: Willa, Sage, Logan and Serafina,
- Character colors: pink, purple, yellow and blue,
- Fijits are soft and tactile so they can be poked and squeezed,
- They move in a variety of lifelike motions,
- Can say more than 100 built-in jokes and phrases,
- Will recognize certain types of music and dance along,
- Will respond to certain phrases you say to them,
- Can perform their own original songs,
- Use 5 AA batteries (included but must be replaced to work properly),
- Comes with instructions.

How Do Fijit Friends Work?

The Fijit friends are complex characters who sing, tell jokes, respond to what you say to them, light up and move around. What they do all depends on what you want them to. Tell them certain phrases when their bellies are lit and they will respond. Play them music and they will dance along. They are fun, interactive toys designed for girls aged six and above.

Are The Fijit Friends Worth Buying For Your Child?

The most exciting thing about Fijit Friends is how interactive they are. Although they look simple from the outside - they have a singular body with no real arms or legs - they are so soft that they can move around in many different ways. And kids just love the fact that they can truly interact with their Fijit toy!

Most parents who buy the Fijit Friends toys for their children find that they can't get enough of them. Whether they're dancing along with their Fijit Friends, or just having fun having a conversation, there's plenty to keep your child busy. What's more, you can keep your child's interest by making use of extra accessories such as mobile apps, online videos and even TV commercials - Fijit Friends are able to interact with these in a variety of new ways.

Some parents have complained that there aren't as many responses as the manufacturers have claimed. However, this is an issue with the demonstration mode and batteries included in the Fijit Friend when you first buy the pack. To open up the range of interactions and movements, it's important to remove and replace the included batteries. Once you do, your Fijit Friend will have many more responses. Your child must also speak clearly to help the toy recognize what she is saying.

Fijit Friends are also designed to be durable: important in any toy. The soft plastic won't break easily, and it feels great to touch. The ears can be removed for storage if necessary.

The Fijit Friends don't cost much for what you're getting, considering how interactive the toy is. Yes, they may look simple, but they also look cute and fun, and your child will fall in love with these unique characters once they start interacting with them. Choose a Fijit Friend to match your daughter's favorite color, but try to buy in advance before they go out of stock.

Lalaloopsy Silly Hair Dolls

The Lalaloopsy used to be rag dolls, but when their last stitch was sewn, they magically transformed into the characters that little girls know and love today. They live in a fun, magical world along with their friends, and have taken on the personalities of the fabrics that were used to create them.

There are a number of Lalaloopsy characters available. Some of the most popular are Blossom Flowerpot, Jewels Sparkles, Tippy Tumbelina, Mittens Fluff N Stuff and Dot Starlight. There are also a number of accessories available to buy to help them feel at home. This includes the Lalaloopsy treehouse, a carry playset and more.

Features Of The Lalaloopsy Silly Hair Dolls

- Come with their own pets,
- Each doll has a unique look and features,
- Shoes and clothes can be removed for play,
- Can move their legs, arms and head,
- Also comes with promise certificate and collectible poster.

Are The Lalaloopsy Dolls Worth Buying For Your Child?

Because of the small parts that come in the package, the Lalaloopsy Silly Hair Dolls are not recommended for children under the age of 3. The manufacturer recommended age range is 6 to 12, though many younger kids enjoy playing with toys from the range, too.

One of the benefits of the Lalaloopsy dolls is the fact that they are durable. Although the characters were once rag dolls, the toys you buy are made using hard plastic and can survive the kind of rough treatment and drops that little girls are likely to give them. Although some parents have expressed the fact they'd rather they were soft, there are so sharp edges and the plastic holds up very well to continuous play.

Another benefit of the Lalaloopsy Silly Hair Dolls is that they're easy even for the youngest kids to dress. The clothes come off and go on without effort, and the style of dress is also something a little different to your standard Barbie dolls.

Because of the collectible nature of the Lalaloopsy dolls, you'll want to make sure you buy them well in advance of the holiday rush before they go out of stock. This is especially true if you have a specific doll you want to buy for your child. They are bound to sell out very quickly!

In short, the Lalaloopsy Silly Hair Dolls are the kind of gift you give to girls who like dolls of all kinds. Kids will quickly fall in love with the quirky characters who are listed on the Toys R Us Holiday Hot List for 2011.

LEGO Ninjago Lightning Dragon Battle

New for 2011, the Ninjago Lightning Dragon Battle is a limited edition set from Lego. This set comes with a range of different characters, as well as an impressive dragon model and helicopter. This makes a great gift for any child who likes Lego, or anyone collecting sets from the Ninjago range specifically.

Features Of The Lego Ninjago Lightning Dragon Battle

The story behind the Lightning Dragon Battle set is that of the ninja Sensei Wu, who has been captured by Frakjaw and Kruncha. They've also stolen the nunchucks of lightning, and taken them all away in their helicopter. It's up to the Lightning Dragon and Jay to work to save Sensei Wu and get the weapons back before they can escape to the underworld. But it's not going to be easy, as the helicopter is equipped with a number of different weapons.

- Limited edition product,
- 4 minifigures included: Sensei Wu, Kruncha, Jay and Frakjaw,
- Exclusive skull chopper pilot and spinner included,
- Includes a number of weapons: 2 spears, sword, silver mace, 2 golden spears, golden blade, nunchucks of lightning and staff,
- Helicopter is 4 inches wide by 10 inches tall,
- Lightning Dragon is 18 inches wide by 19 inches tall,
- You can snap the Lightning Dragon's Jaws or spit out lethal lightning balls,
- The Lightning Dragon has pose-able wings, limbs and tail,
- 645 pieces in total.

Is The Lego Ninjago Lightning Dragon Battle Set Worth Buying For Your Child?

There's something about ninjas that kids just love. They're excellent fighters, and you just never know where one could be hiding! The Ninjago Lego range tells the story of the good ninja Sensei Wu, looking to protect the town against his evil brother. This latest set is a new chapter in the story.

The detail on the Ninjago minifigures is excellent. From Sensei Wu's wise-looking beard to Kruncha's scary face and skeleton body - these are like no other Lego minifigures before them. Some characters are featured in other sets on the Ninjago range, but they often include subtle differences (such as different weapons or coloring).

The models themselves - the skeleton helicopter and the Lightning Dragon - look excellent once you've put them together. Building them is a challenge, but nothing too off-putting for kids between the ages of 8 and 14. Once building is complete, there are spaces for the minifigures to fit inside the helicopter or on top of the Lightning Dragon as kids recreate the famous battle.

The one downside that most parents will notice about this set is the fact that it doesn't come cheap. However, when you consider just how much you get from this set - 645 pieces total, to make a helicopter and a dragon - the cost isn't too bad at all. And the set is certainly unique!

In short, if you have a child who is already into the Ninjago Lego range, then there's no doubt this will be a welcome addition to their collection. If not, it's still a very high quality limited addition toy that any Lego fan will be happy to play with. The only thing you need to watch out for is whether it stays in stock over the holiday period.

Let's Rock Elmo

Let's Rock Elmo is the newest Elmo toy from the Sesame Street range. Fully interactive, this toy is designed to encourage your child's music skills while they have fun playing or dancing along to Elmo's music! Perfect for preschoolers who love the Elmo character.

Let's Rock Elmo Features

- Elmo model with his own microphone,
- Also includes bongos and a tambourine,
- Elmo recognizes which instrument you give him and will play along with you,
- Elmo can recognize new instruments too (sold separately),
- 6 songs built in,
- Uses 6 AA batteries (included).

This is an interactive Elmo toy designed to play music alongside your child. Whether your child jams along with the bongos or the tambourine, Elmo will recognize the instrument that you choose to give him to play, and play along with them, moving around at the same time. There are six songs built into the toy.

Is Let's Rock Elmo Worth Buying For Your Child?

Elmo is a huge part of any child's life, and any toy featuring this adorable character is likely to go down well with young kids. Let's Rock Elmo, in particular, is recommended for children between the ages of 18 months and 4 years old. The good news is that there are no small parts, making it safe even for the very youngest children.

In terms of how this toy will benefit your child, it's fantastic for keeping them occupied for long periods of time. Further than that, however, it helps them to learn more about rhythm and music, as well as developing their motor skills thanks to the way your child will interact with the included microphones.

The cost of this toy is the main factor that could put some parents off. As with most interactive toys, it doesn't come cheap. It can get even more expensive, however, if you decide to buy some of the accessories, such as the Let's Rock Keyboard or Let's Rock Guitar. That said, by purchasing these extras there'll be much more scope for what your child can do with this toy.

Thankfully, Let's Rock Elmo is durable, and will last long enough for your child to grow up with it before they move onto other toys. The only real complaint is that the arms can come out of place if your child pulls too hard (though they can be put back in again).

As with any other musical toys, there is a potential for Let's Rock Elmo to annoy the adults in the household, especially given the limited number of songs included. Thankfully, however, it can keep your child's attention for long periods of time, and is, on the whole, an excellent choice of toy for young children this holiday season.

Lite Sprites Prisma and Lite Wand

The Lite Sprites come from Lite-Topia, an enchanted world full of different lights and colors. There are a range of toy characters for children to collect. Prisma herself is leader of all the Sprites, and this set comes with her figurine in her own little pod as well as the Lite Wand that your child will need if they're going to interact with other characters from the series.

The main selling point of the Lite Sprites range is the way in which the Lite Wand can recognize colors from the world around us, when your child points it at a certain objects. The light at the end of the wand will light up. When they point the wand at Prisma, she'll change to match that color. When kids find a color they like, they can point it at other Lite Sprites from the range and change their color too.

Features Of The Prisma And Lite Wand

- Includes Lite Wand and Prisma character,
- Prisma comes with 10 favorite colors,
- Prisma comes with her own Forest Pod,
- Learn different color games,
- Cast color spells,
- The Lite Wand can capture colors of objects around the home,
- Use the Lite Wand to send this color to Prisma,
- Makes magical sounds and colorful lights,
- Interacts with Lite Sprites playsets,
- Uses 4x AAA batteries (not included).

Is The Lite Sprites Prisma And Lite Wand Set Worth Buying?

If you've got a little girl, then you may already know that this is a "must have" item for the holiday season. What this means is there are many little girls who all want the same gift, so you'll need to buy it early to make sure you can find it in stock! As for which girls it will appeal to, the manufacturer recommends it for ages 4 and up.

Although 10 colors come with the Lite Wand on a separate color wheel, it's designed for kids to find new ones by exploring the objects around them and absorbing the colors. In this sense the set encourages kids to become more observant of their surroundings, and more creative as they search for a color that they've never used before. The wand will store colors if your child wants to bring them with them somewhere else.

The fact that you can "absorb" colors with the wand and change the color of the Lite Sprite is fun, but it's a novelty that could quickly wear off. Thankfully it's not the only thing that kids can do with the Lite Sprite. There are a few different games on the Lite Wand - such needing to find the color that it shows you before the time runs out - or you can use the characters as a nightlight (Prisma stays lit up for around 12 minutes).

Monster High Fearleading

There's nothing quite like the Monster High doll range at the moment. These characters are fun, rebellious, with a quirky fashion sense that little girls just love. Just in time for the holiday season, there's a new addition to the range: the Monster High Fearleading set. This brings back some of our favorite Monster High characters in a new cheerleading setting.

Monster High Fearleading Set Features

- Set includes three "Fearleading" dolls from the Monster High series: Cleo de Nile, Dracula and Ghoulia Yelps,
- Set of pom poms for Dracula,
- Megaphone for Cleo,
- Red glasses for Ghoulia,
- Also comes with a school banner, gym bag and foam finger.

These three characters are all part of the cheerleading squad at their school, Monster High. They come with everything they need to get the crowd cheering, and Dracula and Cleo are dressed in their team colors: black, pink and white. Ghoulia is there as the ultimate Monster High team fan.

Does The Monster High Fearleading Set Make A Good Gift For Your Child?

Any new set of Monster High dolls is always guaranteed to go down well with little girls who already own a few characters. They're unique in the world of dolls; unlike Barbies, they aren't blonde and too "girly". All the characters in the series have ghosts and other spooky characters as parents, so they're all completely individual.

The detail on the Monster High dolls is always impressive - from their hairstyles to the detail on their clothing and shoes. There are also a number of accessories included to help make playtime more fun, and urge your kids to get creative with the scenes they imagine for their new friends.

One thing to note is the fact that these characters have been sold separately before, but in different clothing and with different accessories. If your child already owns one or more of them, they may still be happy to have the new setting. Or they may prefer a new character from the Monster High series.

Young girls of just about any age enjoy playing with toys like the Monster High Fearleading set. However, the manufacturer recommends it for ages 6 and above. Note that it isn't suitable for the very youngest children due to the small parts included.

Monster High Dolls are some of the most popular toys for girls of today. Coupled with the fact that they're highly collectible, this could make it difficult to find these products in stock for the holidays. Try to buy as far in advance as possible to avoid paying extra fees to third party sellers.

Power Wheels Dune Racer

Kids never tire of playing on motorized vehicles. The Power Wheels series of vehicles from Fisher-Price have been around for decades now, and are the top brand for this kind of toy. The latest in the line is the Dune Racer - designed to be able to drive two riders over all sorts of terrain. It also comes with a number of extra features for imaginative play, from seat belts to storage compartments and more.

Power Wheels Dune Racer Features

- 2 seat racer car,
- Can drive over mud, gravel, wet grass and more, with large off road tires,
- Open cockpit design,
- Two forward speeds (2.5 and 5 mph),
- 2.5 mph in reverse,
- Front storage compartment,
- Seat belts,
- Metal frame and nickel plated side safety bars,
- Front bumper,
- Shifter,
- Metal plated wheels,
- 12-volt battery and charger.

Is The Power Wheels Dune Racer Worth Buying For Your Child?

First things first, the Power Wheels Dune Racer is excellent fun for kids aged between 36 months and 7 years of age. The fact that it can hold two kids at the same time makes it an excellent toy for encouraging friends and siblings to play together - they can each get a turn at driving, or riding along as a passenger.

As for set up, the Dune Racer is easy to put together. It takes around 45 minutes to assemble, and comes with a number of stickers to decorate it and help achieve the realistic feel of the vehicle. Once it's set up, you'll see that it's quite roomy and more than enough space for two kids to ride comfortably.

One thing parents are always concerned about with this type of toy is safety. Thankfully, Fisher-Price have an excellent track record when it comes to the safety of their products. Because the Power Wheels Dune Racer rides low to the ground, and has a safety bar on each side, it's unlikely that your child will fall out and hurt themselves. The vehicle is also very wide, preventing it from toppling over.

Kids generally find the Dune Racer extremely easy to use. As with anything, it takes a little practice before they become skilled drivers, but once they are they will be able to take this over all kinds of terrain. The smallest children in the spectrum of recommended ages may find it a little difficult to reach the pedals, but they will soon grow into it.

The Power Wheels Dune Racer is a fun, safe and affordable toy within the motorized vehicle category. Yes, it costs more than some non-motorized equivalents, but the fun factor more than makes up for it. This is a toy that has the potential for hours of play at a time, getting your child out into the fresh air. A definite contender for your child's main gift at Christmas this year.

Simon Flash

If you're a fan of the original Simon memory game, then the new Simon Flash will go down well in your household. This new game is set to make waves this holiday season, combining a number of different games into one.

What Is The Simon Game?

The original game uses four different colored lights. To win, you must memorize the order the lights appear in. As you get further in the game, the sequence you need to memorize gets longer and longer.

This new Simon Flash toy has a number of different modes to keep things interesting:

- The yellow game requires you to line up the cubes to get the lights to turn off,
- The red game mixes up the colors of the cubes, leaving you to put them back in their original order,
- The blue game requires you to get the same color on all four of the cubes,
- The green game is the classic Simon memory game.

What Do You Get With The Simon Flash Game?

- 4 electronic cubes,
- Game rules,
- Case,
- 8 AAA batteries,
- Quick-play card.

Is The Simon Flash Game Worth Buying For Your Child?

This game is certainly fun. It has enough to it to keep the whole family occupied for hours at a time, thanks to the four different game modes. The great thing about this game is that it's totally fair - the younger kids have just as much of a chance of winning as the adults do!

You can play the Simon Flash game with as many players as you like - whether that means on your own or with the whole family. Although it's recommended for ages eight and above, younger kids can and do have a great time joining in.

The fact that the game is so small means it's a good game to take with you when you travel. Keep the kids entertained in the back of the car while you try to navigate, or bring it with you as a game you can all play together while on vacation.

The one downside of this game is that it may seem a little expensive for what it is. At around $25, it's still cheap, but it does cost a little more than some other family games you can buy. Aside from the price, the only other downside is that it needs eight batteries to run. These are included, but future batteries could be a little costly.

All in all, Simon Flash makes an excellent holiday gift for the whole family. Toys that bring people together should be treasured, and Simon Flash can do that, or keep you entertained when you're alone.

Trash Pack Garbage Truck

The Trash Pack are a new line of toys incorporating a number of "icky" characters, perfect for collecting and swapping with friends. Toys R Us have named the Trash Pack range as some of the hottest new toys for the 2011 holiday season. In particular, the Trash Pack Garbage Truck is sure to be at the top of kids' wish lists this year.

What Is The Trash Pack?

The Trash Pack is a range of characters - known as "trashies" - all named after different items that you might literally find in the trash. A number of games for trashies have been developed, including Stack the Trash, Take Out the Trash and others, and the toys are highly collectible.

In total, there are over 100 different trashies for kids to collect and swap with friends. The rarest trashies glow in the dark, and some of the different characters include: Putrid Pizza, Garbage Gull, Mucky Maggot and Germ-Worm. If you're lucky, you might find some limited edition trashies: Trash Cat, King Rat or Soggy Tomato.

Features of the Trash Pack Garbage Truck:

- Designed as a place for kids to store their collected trashies (holds up to 10),
- Comes with two trashies included,
- Compatible with all Trash Pack characters.

Is The Trash Pack Garbage Truck Worth Buying For Your Child?

Kids love playing with the garbage truck thanks to the way it operates. Put the trashies into the wheelie bin and use the "tip and flip" action to dump them into the trash truck. Or they can launch them using the included bin launcher! It sounds simple, but it's great fun for little kids.

The fun also lies in the fact that they're collectible. Kids just love collecting and trading toys with their friends. Some trashies are rarer than others, so kids are bound to end up with duplicates which they'll need to swap with friends to get the whole set. And just wait to see the look on your child's face if they're lucky enough to get a rare trashie in their set!

The trashies themselves are all unique, coming in a range of different shapes, colors and designs to represent disgusting bits of trash. This seems to appeal to young kids - why is it that they love to play with gross objects? Thankfully, these just look gross and are perfectly harmless for your child!

Although the Trash Pack toys aren't necessarily any different from trading toys that came before them (e.g. the Squinkies), they're well-priced and come in fun designs. The Trash Pack Garbage Truck is an excellent choice of gift for any young child (aged around five or up) who loves to collect trashies, or who you think may be interested in starting.

WWE Colossal Crashdown Arena

If you've got a young boy, around the age of five or older, who loves his WWE wrestling then the WWE Colossal Crashdown Arena could be the perfect toy for him. This arena has a number of features designed to help kids recreate the most famous title matches, and has already been tipped as one of the hottest toys for this holiday season.

Features of the WWE Colossal Crashdown Arena

- Officially licensed by WWE,
- The largest FlexForce ring play set released to date,
- Comes with spring-loaded mats, pro-tension ropes, turnbuckles, and WWE logos,
- RAW-themed ring with scenes from famous matches,
- Collapsible 18 inch structure on top of the ring.

Is The WWE Colossal Crashdown Arena Worth Buying For Your Child?.

A lot of detail has gone into this toy to make it as true-to-life as possible. For example, the mats inside the ring actually make the "crashing" noise you'll hear on TV, and spring up and down just like the real thing. The title belt is even hanging down above the ring. There are two posts at the top of the structure for the wrestlers to jump off, and you'll hear the crash once they do!

There are plenty of different actions for your kids to recreate besides jumping from the top. Wrestlers can fight on the mat, bounce off the ropes, or react as the whole arena crashes down on top of them. There's plenty of scope for creating their own scenes as well as copying existing ones.

The good news is that the arena is easy to put together, but it will take about twenty minutes. The bad news is that it doesn't come with any wrestlers. You'll need to buy the FlexForce action figures separately, which can sell for around $10 to $15 each. If your child is a wrestling fan then they've probably already got some, or they can use the arena with any other action figures they may happen to own.

Moshi Monsters Moshlings 3-Pack

There's a new craze in the world of toys: Moshi Monsters. These are virtual pets that many kids have signed up to take care of in recent years. Now, the cute computerized characters have made their way into the real world of toys, and the Moshi Monster Moshlings 3-pack is set to be a huge seller this Christmas.

What Are Moshi Monsters?

Moshi Monsters have been around for a few years now. They are pets that kids can adopt and take care of through the website, in a safe social networking environment. To take care of their monsters, children need to solve puzzles to earn more of the monster currency. They will spend this on food, toys and treats for their monster.

The Moshi Monsters have their own pets, too, in the form of Moshlings. Kids can now own Moshlings of their own through real life toys, which is what this set will provide for them.

Features Of The Moshi Monsters 3-Pack

- Comes with 3 Moshling figures,
- Includes a code to use online for a special item,
- Free 3 day premium trial membership,
- Free collector card,
- The 3 Moshlings are selected at random - so you never know what you'll get.

The secret code that comes with this pack can be used online to retrieve a special item for your Moshi Monster. It's a mystery as to what you'll get!

Does The Moshi Monster Moshlings 3-Pack Make A Good Gift For Your Child?

The good thing about the Moshi Monsters Moshlings 3-pack is that it's extremely affordable for what you get. There are also a number of other Moshi Monsters toys available in the range to suit just about any budget.

The premium Moshi Monsters online membership costs around $6 a month, but your child will get 3 days free access with this Moshlings pack. The free membership is a bonus given how cheap the 3-pack is, but it could also be a drawback once your child sees what's included and begs you to pay out month after month!

Although there's a free membership option, paying gives access to features such as more styles of home, an art display area, a passport to special VIP areas, exclusive gifts, the Moshling Zoo and more Rox (the Moshi Monsters currency).

The inevitable downside of the Moshi Monsters Moshling set is that you don't know what you'll get. Just as with any other collectible toys of this type, this could mean that your child ends up with duplicates. Some Moshlings are more rare than other - kids will usually trade these with friends in an effort to complete their set, which is fun all in itself.

In short, the Moshi Monsters Moshlings are fun figurines that kids enjoy collecting. They don't do much in themselves, but they're cheap and unique in the world of collectible toys. Just make sure to buy your Moshlings well in advance, as they are already starting to sell out in toy stores.
